SUSTAINABLE DIETS FOR HEALTHY PEOPLE AND HEALTHY PLANET

2 APRIL 2019 • 8:00 TO 9:00 AM

Conference Room 34 • UN City • Copenhagen

Today the world faces enormous challenges in nourishing its growing population while assuring the health and sustainability of the planet which is under severe environmental pressures. Poor diets from current food systems are the number one driver for the malnutrition burden. At the same time, they are one of the most important drivers for climate change and major contributors to the decline of natural biodiversity, land degradation, water extraction and pollution. Transforming food systems for healthier and sustainable diets will not only nourish people, it will nourish the planet.

This side-event will provide a platform for several actors to share ideas, experiences and challenges in promoting healthy and sustainable diets as a means of contributing to the alignment of the climate and 2030 Agenda's - specifically SDG 2 and SDG 13 - and of stimulating action from stakeholders at the global, regional and country levels to maximize synergies. It is also expected that the side-event will provide insights for the forthcoming in-depth revision of SDG 13 at the High Level Political Forum on Sustainable Development.
